Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) describes an assessment process used to evaluate a person’s existing skillset, knowledge and experience gained either by formal, non-formal or informal mode of learning. It aims to appreciate the learning, not paying attention to the medium of achieving it.

RPL under PMKVY has three primary objectives:
- It aims to align the competencies of the unregulated workforce of the country to standardized National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF).
- To enhance the employability opportunities of an individual as well as provide alternative routes for higher education.
- To reduce inequalities based on privileges for certain modes of education over others.

When it comes to employability, India has a huge unorganized workforce sector. Most of the force is either unskilled or semi-skilled, or even if they have skills - certain parameters defies their skills and this leads to increase in un-employability. There are certain people who tend to pick up skills and knowledge in an informal set up where their teacher was observance or working under someone's guidance or a journey of self-learning. As a result, even though they manage to get a job and earn a decent wage or salary, they may not be able to improve their skills. This also affects their productivity and quality of output. They need access to training programs and support from their employers to skill and upskill themselves. This is where Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) can help them get assessed and certified on their current competencies as per NSQF levels. RPL also shows them a path to bridge their current knowledge and skill levels to reach a competency level or go for higher skills for professional growth.

Benefits of Upskilling & Reskilling
- Increases Productivity
- Future-proof your business
- Retain top talent and reduce hiring cost
- Cross function teams
- Boost employee motivation
- Strengthen the relationship between employees and employers

What RPL does is allow people to demonstrate that they are capable of undertaking specific tasks or working in certain industries based on evidence of skills and knowledge gained throughout their life.

Apprenticeship Training consists of Basic Training and On-the-Job Training/Practical Training at workplace in the industry. The basic training is an essential component of apprenticeship training for those fresher candidates who have not undergone any institutional training/skill training before taking up on-the-job-training/practical training.

The Apprentices Act, 1961 was enacted with the objective of regulating the program of training of apprentices in the industry by utilizing the facilities available therein for imparting on-the-job training. Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship is the administrative ministry responsible for implementation of this Act.

National Apprenticeship Promotion Scheme:
Sharing of 25% of prescribed stipend subject to a maximum of INR 1500/- per month per apprentice to all apprentices with the employers.
Sharing the cost of basic training with Basic Training Providers (BTP) up to a maximum of INR 7500 per trainee for a maximum of 500 hours calculated @ INR 15 per hour.

It is one of the most important modes of training in terms of quality of training, practical learning and enhanced employability of candidates. It is the most promising skills delivery vehicle in the Industrial/training ecosystem of the country as it provides for structured and rigorous training in a real working environment which helps apprentices to acquire skills and adapt to the workplace. It gives apprentices a real chance to put acquired skills into practice and helps them to gain confidence in a working environment.

Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) is a management concept whereby companies integrate social and environmental concerns in their business operations and interactions with their stakeholders. CSR is generally understood as being the way through which a company achieves a balance of economic, environmental and social imperatives ("Triple Bottom-Line-Approach"), while at the same time addressing the expectations of shareholders and stakeholders. In this sense, it is important to draw a distinction between CSR which can be a strategic business management concept and charity, sponsorships or philanthropy. Even though the latter can also make a valuable contribution to poverty reduction, will directly enhance the reputation of a company and strengthen its brand, the concept of CSR clearly goes beyond that. A properly implemented CSR concept can bring along a variety of competitive advantages such as enhanced access to capital and markets, increased sales and profits, operational cost savings, improved productivity and quality, efficient human resource base, improved brand image and reputation, enhanced customer loyalty, better decision making and risk management processes.
The sole purpose of arranging the job fair is to bridge the gap between students and Industry so that we can ensure and provide more opportunities to students and great placement options for future talents.
